

PANEL DISCUSSION ON ENVIRONMENTAL PEACEBUILDING

“Environmental Challenges in War-Torn Societies: Sustainability and Human Security in Post-Conflict Reconstruction”

4:15 – 6:15 p.m., Wed., Nov. 29
Love Auditorium
Levine Science Research Center
Duke University

Free and open to the public.
Reception to follow in LSRC's Hall of Science.

Join us for a public discussion on the role the environment can play in post-conflict peace building and the reconstruction of war-torn societies.

This panel discussion will be chaired by Erika Weinthal, associate professor of environmental policy at the Nicholas School. Featured panelists include:

- Ken Conca, Harrison Program on the Future Global Agenda, University of Maryland
- Alexander Carius, Adelphi Research
- Liz McBride, International Rescue Committee
- Judy Oglethorpe, World Wildlife Fund
- Richard Matthew, Center for Unconventional Security Affairs, University of California at Irvine

Co-sponsored by the Nicholas Institute for Environmental Policy Solutions and the Nicholas School of the Environment and Earth Sciences with support from Harrison Program on the Future Global Agenda, University of Maryland; Environmental Change and Security Program, Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars; and the Center for Unconventional Security Affairs, University of California at Irvine.

For more information, contact Erika Weinthal at weinthal@duke.edu or (919) 613-8080.

